February 2006

The Afognak Island State Park Pillar Lake public use cabin is located on the south shore of Pillar Lake, approximately twenty minutes by float plane from the city of Kodiak.

Visitors can hunt, fish, hike, or just enjoy the pristine environment. Alpine areas can be reached from the lake in one to two hours of hiking through a spruce forest that surrounds the lake shore and reaches to about 700 feet in elevation.

Dolly Varden and Rainbow Trout are present in Pillar Lake. A three-hour hike (recommended for experienced wilderness hikers only) to the lake directly south of Big Tonki Bay provides access to steelhead and salmon fishing.

Pillar Lake may freeze as early as the first of November. When making transportation arrangements, be sure the charter service can land on the Izhut Bay beach (behind the cabin), should it be necessary.

What is provided? - Wood burning stove for heat. Firewood must be split. Tools are provided. Cookware and eating utensils. Five-gallon water bucket. Fresh water can be obtained from Pillar Lake, but requires rapid boiling for at least five minutes.

Accommodations:

The 12-ft. by 14-ft. cabin structure can accommodate a maximum of six people. The charge for use of the cabin is $35 per night peak and $25 non-peak. Two bunk beds (each with a single on top and a double below).

How do I reserve the cabin?
